

International Summer Schools 2010

Applications are now available for the 2010 USC Cambridge Programme.

The USC Cambridge Programme is geared toward students who have demonstrated academic excellence and a continuous love of learning. This program is named in honor of Dean Joan Metcalf Schaefer, Dean of Women Emerita, of the University of Southern California.

The International Summer School in Cambridge, England, offers students an excellent opportunity to study British literature, history, economics, poetry, arts and government, and to examine the background of modern Britain and its rich and diverse cultural heritage. Students live in Cambridge Colleges and have the opportunity to visit and appreciate some of England's major historic sites. Students may earn 4 elective credits by taking two courses and completing a comprehensive essay in each course.

Applicants for the awards must have maintained a minimum 3.0 grade point average on their cumulative academic work at USC.

For more information about the USC Cambridge Programme, contact Donna Garcia at dlgarcia@college.usc.edu or Dean Joan Metcalf Schaefer in AHF 209, 213.740.9346

The deadline to apply and for submission of all documents is
